SPECIAL TRAINS ARE TO BRING PEOPLE FROM COAST TO THE GOLDEN SPIKE CELEBRATION

Tout Family May Be Invited to Help Ogden Entertain the Many Visitors—Two Days to Be Devoted to Having an Enjoyable Time.

Agitation for a two-day celebration of the driving of the Golden Spike reached a climax today which will undoubtedly result tomorrow in a reversal of the decision of the sub-executive committee to hold the affair to a one-day event. A special meeting of the general executive committee has been called for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to discuss the proposal to expand the celebration beyond more than one day.

A special train from San Francisco, carrying railroad employees, will also bring a large delegation of guests, it is announced by a member of the committee. Special trains from other points will also probably bring a large number of railroad employees.

The test case this morning at a meeting of the entertainment committee, of which Thomas G. Burt is chairman, and which was supplemented by opinions of prominent citizens. This meeting was held in the city hall to discuss the proposition of providing proper entertainment for the many hundreds of guests who will be drawn to Ogden for the event, and who will arrive ahead of the day and will remain for several days.

Nearly all of the members of the general executive committee have been in favor of at least a two-day celebration and have expressed themselves to that effect, so it is now practically assured that the plans will be changed to cover two days.

It was proposed by the entertainment committee this morning that the entertainment begin on Friday evening with community singing and possibly a concert by Margaret Romaine, Utah's own prima donna. It is also proposed that the entire Tout family, of which Margaret Romaine is a member, be invited to participate in the great affair.

The community singing will be under the direction of Lester Hinchcliff and the oratorio singing will be conducted by Prof. Squire Coop, both to be out of doors.

Mayor Browning, who is chairman of all the committees, was instructed to call a meeting of the general executive committee tomorrow morning in order to give definite official sanction to the more than one-day plan. Until the meeting tomorrow morning the proposed plan for expansion of the celebration can be considered only tentative, but there is no doubt about the result.

A number of public spirited women of the city, including Mrs. Chris Flygare, Mrs. Maud Des Porter, Mrs. Maria Farr Taylor, Mrs. E. Rich and others who are prominent workers in civic welfare matters, conducted the canvass for an expression of sentiment as to the changing of the plan for more than one day.

The entertainment committee has decided that the event is too big to be permitted to pass with a mere parade and a few speeches, as the latter feature will not be heard by all of the guests of the city. It is proposed that some form of really interesting entertainment be provided, so that the outsiders will not tire of the affair and will retain pleasant recollections of their visit.

Mayor Browning announced that many prominent railroad officials and old-time railroaders from all parts of the United States have sent word that they will be here.

UTAH BOYS ARRIVE IN OGDEN AND MORE ARE DUE TO REACH THE CITY ON AFTERNOON TRAIN

A small contingent of the 361st infantry, a unit of the Ninety-first or Wild West division, arrived in Ogden this morning from Fort Russell, Wyo., where the boys were released from military service. A mere handful of men, practically all that remains of the Utah boys of the regiment that entered the Arizona battle last fall and brought fame to the division. The boys were mostly from Salt Lake and southern Utah with a number from Idaho and Nevada.

Sergeant James Hawkins and John Blanco, Ogden boys, were among the heroes who returned. The train was met by a large crowd of relatives and friends of the returning boys. Some were disappointed, while others met with their heart's desire and welcomed their loved ones home. The boys reported that many of the Utah boys failed to catch the train last night from Fort Russell but that they would arrive on a Union Pacific train this afternoon.

Every day for the next week will see the remaining members of these regiments returning to their homes.

"MORE INFORMATION FOR THE BUYER OF EATS"

WE wonder how many of the younger generation know how the packing houses make lard? There are two kinds of lard known to the trade as "Kettle Rendered" and "Steam Lard."

A few years ago nearly all lard on this market was "Steam Lard" but at this time there is more "Kettle Rendered" lard sold than "Steam Lard." Kettle Rendered Lard is made from the leaf and back fat of the hog cooked in an open kettle by steam that heats the kettle from the outside. Somewhat on the plan of a double Rice Cooker. Small Butcher shops sometimes cook it in an ordinary open kettle over a fire. It may be cooked either way but when cooked over a fire, it sometimes burns, while with steam cooking this never happens. Only the best quality of fat can be used in "Kettle Rendered" as it retains its natural color and flavor when finished. "Steam Rendered" Lard is made from fats from the trimmings of other parts of the hog. This is put into a kettle and sealed and a high pressure of steam turned directly into the kettle when it thoroughly dissolves the mass. After a number of hours cooking the kettle is opened and the mass allowed to settle. The Lard comes to the top and is drawn off and run through what is known as the "Mud Kettle" which is really a bleaching process. Fuller's earth is used to bleach it. This is then strained through a number of thick cloths and comes out pure white, no matter what the color in the first place the bleaching process makes it pure white. Kettle rendered lard is considered the best quality. Our own brand "Perfection" is Kettle rendered. We have a modern steam kettle for this purpose and when you get "Perfection" brand you are sure of getting the very best Lard on the market. "Steam Lard" is always a little cheaper. We quote our own "Perfection":

Lard Bulk at 40c lb	No. 10 Pail 3.75
No. 3 Pail $1.15	No. 25 Can 8.75
No. 5 Pail 1.90	No. 50 Can 17.00

Our "Ideal Shortening" is a lard substitute and is the natural color of Mazola Oil and beef suet. It answers all the requirements of lard. It is cheaper, and is preferred by many to lard. We quote:

Bulk $.30	No. 10 Pail 3.00
No. 3 Pail90	No. 25 Pail 7.00
No. 5 Pail 1.50	No. 50 Pail 13.00

We have a few odds and ends in paint that we are closing at reduced prices. Also a part of a barrel of Linseed Oil Compound. The manufacturer claims it is as good as pure Linseed Oil for all painting purposes. Bring your can. Per. Gal. $1.50. Which is about half the price of Linseed Oil. We have also a few Lawn Mowers that we are closing out at greatly reduced price.

Office Clerks Are Defeated by the Yard Office Nine

The S. P. office clerks suffered their first defeat in the local railroad baseball league last night at the hands of the nine from the yard office. The game ended with the score 5 to 4. Four of five runs accredited to the yard office were made in the third frame. The bases were full and a yard office played knocked a "pop fly" to third base. The third baseman "muffed" and before the ball could be recovered four yard office players crossed the rubber. The chief feature of the game was the pitching of Nelson for the yard office. Thirteen strikeouts were accredited to him. This victory puts the yard office nine at the head of the league. The lineup was as follows:
